The price of oil reached sub-normalcy some time ago and the end is not yet.

There is a shortage of 25,000 physicians in the United States. The educational requirements resulting from the efforts of the medical associations are so strong now that not enough young men are entering the profession to meet the demand. Six to seven years are required to complete the course. It may be found necessary to reduce the requirements. The old lax laws were sadly in need of revision but it looks as though the new laws have gone too far all at once.

Europe is badly in need of our surplus products, but has neither the money nor the credit to buy them. We are standing aloof from the rest of the world and our business is suffering terribly because of this fact. The United States must co-operate with the other nations if she is to share in the world's business to any considerable extent. Credit for Europe could be easily established through our co-operation. It is as plain a proposition as anyone ever attempted to see through. Suppose a dozen men should shut themselves in together and endeavor to prosper and grow wealthy by trading exclusively with each other. This would be just as sensible as it is for a nation to pursue the same policy.

Atkins & Vaughan,
Louisa, Ky.
Gentlemen:

I suffered with my eyes for several months and had a constant headache. I did not get relief until I came to you and had my eyes examined and glasses fitted. My eyes are very much improved now and I do not have the headache any more unless I go without my glasses.

I am very grateful for the relief that I got and will recommend any one who has bad eyes to you.

Yours truly,

MRS. DELLA THOMPSON,

Louisa, Ky., R. D. No. 1.
